

An open book is shown from a top-down perspective. The left page has a small, rectangular, multi-colored label (green, blue, and red) with some illegible text. The right page is mostly blank. The book's binding and the edges of many pages are visible on the left side. The background is a solid, bright orange color.

Source for article quoted in sermon: www.christies.com